

Sequatchie valley Institute's
Natural Building Intensive
September 2008
at ulinawi

Our building intensive will focus primarily on earthbag and timber framing. We're going to be building every day for the next year, but we're inviting all comers for internships during the last three weeks of September.

September 9-20: Hands-on Work Intensive

September 21-27: Work Intensive with Field Trips and Classes

Saturdays - 13, 20, 27: Work Party Days

cost is very nominal - $5/day, as worktrade is expected.

if this is still too expensive, alternate arrangements are possible.

cost includes meals and camping.

classes will be on natural building principles and materials, plus whatever people want to learn. bradley jones, your workshop facilitator, has experience and training in solar power, natural building principles, earthbag, cob, timber framing, straw bale, sustainable timber harvest, permaculture, and salvage and scrap building.

for more information email: quasiperiodic@gmail.com or call: 510.853.0888

"we" in this case is ULINAWI, a new community in a cluster of communities in the sequatchie valley of tennessee.
for pictures and more information about what we're up to, bradley's personal blog:

craftmonkey.typepad.com/alternatetheory

