

the sequatchie valley institute at moonshadow invites you to the eleventh annual food for life in the new millenium

a gathering about the source and protection of life held near dunlap, tennessee may 21-31, 2009

the gathering will include workshops on:

- canning, freezing and drying
- making tempeh
- fermenting miso, sauerkraut and kimchi
- wine, beer, mead and champagnes
- different methods of cooking and diet choices
- snacks for kids and playing with yer food
- health and nutrition
- edible and medicinal plants
- permaculture techniques
- theoretical and political explorations of the social and ecological implications of industrial agriculture and genetic engineering
- sustainable community-based food systems

all workshops at the sequatchie valley institute are intentionally affordable using a sliding scale.
food exchange is available.

contact moonshadow for information about the schedule and fees.

(423) 949-5922
www.svionline.org

